DEADLY MEDICINE: CREATING THE MASTER RACE

"This exhibit should be a part of every citizen's experience." The New York Times

From 1933 to 1945, Nazi Germany carried out a campaign to "cleanse" German society of individuals viewed as biological threats to the nation's "health." Enlisting the help of physicians and medically trained geneticists, psychiatrists, and anthropologists, the Nazis developed racial health policies that began with the mass sterilization of "genetically diseased" persons and ended with the near annihilation of European Jewry.

To relate this history, the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum has assembled photographs, documents, and historic film footage from European and American collections and presents them in settings evoking medical and scientific environments. Deadly Medicine: Creating the Master Race provokes reflection on the continuing attraction of biological utopias that promote the possibility of human perfection. From the early twentieth-century international eugenics movements to present-day dreams of eliminating inherited disabilities through genetic manipulation, the issues remain timely.

Deadly Medicine: Creating the Master Race is organized and circulated by the United States Holocaust Museum. The exhibit has been made possible by The Lerner Foundation and Eric F. and Lore Ross.

Platte River Triathlon has been cancelled for 2010. We apologize for the disappointment this may cause, but hope you will understand the decision to cancel was a business decision, based on the limited staff to manage the event. The only way we would want to hold the event is if we are certain that we could continue to do so in the manner to which you are accustomed and which you deserve. The expenses for this event run high, and it is difficult right now to find sponsors. Thank you for understanding. Please check back with us next summer for a decision on the 2011 Triathlon.*
